Research that our team is spearheading:

APSF Simulation Training Research & the Monitored Anesthesia Care (MAC) Decision Aid:

People:

ISOBS's new projects come with new team members! We'd like to introduce our exciting new and growing team.

Dr. Steven Young

Dr. Young recently became the Medical Director of Ambulatory Anesthesia at Massachusetts Eye & Ear!

currently an undergrad research assistant at the lab of neuroepigenetics at UMB where he is researching the mechanism that contributes to altered development in offspring gestationally exposed to maternal immune activation. Mohamed is also working with Dr. Shapiro and colleagues to study aims to determine the value of implementing a decision aid within the anesthesia department of Mass Eye and Ear. Outside of work Mohamed's favorite activity is taking long hikes and enjoying nature.

Justin Talluto

Justin is a rising senior majoring in biology and health sciences at Emmanuel College. He has experience working in memory care facilities as well as extensive research in transcription gene regulation. In addition, he spends time volunteering at some of the local hospitals in the area such as Massachusetts Eye and Ear and Beth Israel in the psychiatric department. Separate from his interest in medicine, he spends time playing drums, lifting, and playing basketball.

We wish them well! Team members are advancing:

Dolly Modha - started as Clinical Research Coordinator at UC Irvine Health's Department of Anesthesiology & Perioperative Care!
